- Put up curtains in areas whereby the floor gets direct sunlight exposure
- Frequently accessed area/entrances should be protected with a doormat
- Furniture legs should be protected by felt pads or plastics caps
- Trim your pet's nails regularly
- The floor should always be installed in an area that corresponds to its intended utility class

Disclaimer:

Laminate Flooring is subject to thermal expansion and contraction beyond control of the manufacturer as this is natural product made of wood fibers (HDF). These natural occurrences do not constitute a failure of the product, and thus any gap opening after installation is a natural phenomenon and therefore not considered as a defect.

The warranty does not cover damage to the floor which has been caused by event outside of our control such as alterations, refinishing or repairs, normal wear and tear, exposure to moisture, heat, water or excessive sunlight, fire, floods, accidents, forced scratching, indentation from impact, pets and insects, and lack of maintenance according to the recommended usage and maintenance procedures.

The warranty covers the original purchase by the first purchaser and the original installation by Supreme team only and is non transferable.

Any claims for warranty shall be made in writing together with the Warranty Certificate and original proof of purchase within 30 days of the discovery of the defect.
